

INTRODUCTION

We are committed to improving our practices to combat slavery and human trafficking and make this statement pursuant to section 54(6) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 for the financial year ending 30th April 2017.

PRACTICE PROFILE

Hoare Lea is a highly successful, international firm of mechanical, electrical and public health (MEP) consulting engineers. Our client-focused and design-led service is underpinned by our commitment to excellence and our passion for innovative sustainable design.

With over 150 years of design experience, and as the largest firm of MEP consulting engineers in the UK, we have experience across all major market sectors and have worked on many of the most prominent developments in the industry during this time. Hoare Lea remains wholly owned by its partners, and we pride ourselves on the quality of our people.

OUR BUSINESS

The Group is governed by the Executive Board, supported by Central Management Groups.

The Executive Board is responsible for setting the Group's vision and strategy and for providing strategic direction to the business.

Central Management Groups cover all aspects of business support and primarily help the Firm to manage business risk, facilitate the business and continually improve and build upon best practice, including in relation to slavery and human trafficking.

OUR SUPPLY CHAIN

Our supply chain is limited to sub-consultancy services and the procurement of goods and services to support our operations.

OUR APPROACH

Hoare Lea recognises the existence of slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labour and human trafficking in modern day society and fully supports the objectives of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 in tackling the issues associated with modern slavery as they apply to its business and supply chains. Hoare Lea is committed to upholding best practice in business integrity and ethics and recognises that it has a responsibility to ensure that its people are treated fairly and with respect at all times.

Our approach to slavery human trafficking is one of zero tolerance. We will not work with any business who we believe is engaged in any form of modern slavery.

Through our internal processes of pre-qualification and procurement, we will seek to ensure that all organisations with whom we work share our commitment to operating in a responsible and ethical manner with respect to the labour rights of their own employees and the employees of their suppliers.
